TO THE SPORTSMEN OF MASSACHUSETTS:

In order that there may be no misunderstanding I wish to again direct the attention of the sportsmen of the state to the fact that the open season for the hunting of ducks, geese and other waterfowl will extend from October 1st to January 15th, both dates inclusive in all counties of the state.

More particularly I wish to call your attention to a recent change made by the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington under the terms of which the opening of the season on rails and gallinules has been postponed from September 18th to October 1st.

This latter change was made subsequent to the printing of the 1930 edition of the fish and game laws and therefore the sportsmen should not be misled by the statement which is found in the current edition of the fish and game laws pertaining to rails and gallinules.

To summarize the situation—the open season on rails and gallinules will extend from October 1st to December 15th, both dates inclusive.

The open season on Wilson Snipe or Jacksnipe, coots, geese brant and ducks, except wood ducks and elder ducks will extend from October 1st to January 15th, both dates inclusive.

To prevent any unintentional violations of either the Federal or state law on this point, both of which are uniform I earnestly solicit your cooperation in spreading this information among the sportsmen throughout your locality.

Very truly yours,
Raymond J. Kenney
CHIEF WARDEN.

Head-on Collision At Old Deerfield

A collision occurred Monday at about 5.45 p. m., west of the New Haven railroad underpass, south of Old Deerfield street, when Albert Thompson, the local driver of the mail transfer between the post office and Boston and Maine R. R. station, in crossing the new state highway from east to west, was hit by a car almost head on.

Thompson's truck was thrown high in the air and returned completely over, throwing him on the stone road. The New York car turned over twice, throwing its occupants on to the road and caught fire. The driver of a passing Gray Hound bus stopped and extinguished the blaze. Thompson was picked up unconscious, with a bad cut on the right side of his head, the top of his right ear torn, and a bad bruise over his left eye. He was rushed to the Franklin County hospital, and recovered consciousness soon after his arrival.

Herman Rothmund and Richard Aldridge of New York, the occupants of the New York car, were also taken to the hospital badly cut and bruised. None of the victims of the accident are seriously injured.

AFTERNOON WEDDING IN HOME OF BRIDE

Madeline Marcy and Henry M. Bristol Are Married at 3 O'Clock.

Madeline Erma Marcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Gritmon of Bloomfield street, and Henry Meritt Bristol, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Richard of Windsor street, were married Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Lloyd A. Duren, pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church. The double ring service was used.

During the ceremony piano selections, "O Promise Me," Nevin's "Venetian Love Song," the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" and "Mendelssohn's wedding march were played by Miss Sadie M. Crossman.

Miss Helen J. Gritmon of Bloomfield street attended the bride as maid of honor and the best man was Edward Chesley Varney of Chestnut street.

The bride wore a white crepe gown and tulle veil arranged in cap shape caught with orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor had a dress of maize flowered chiffon and a yellow horsehair hat trimmed with capucine velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. Mrs. Gritmon was gowned in navy blueorgette and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Bristol had a green crepe dress and corsage of pink roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception took place in the home of the bride's parents which was decorated for the occasion with palms and roses. Koehler catered.

Mr. and Mrs. Bristol left in the late afternoon for a wedding trip to Washington, the bride traveling in a blue ensemble costume. They will be at home after Nov. 1 at 35 Claremont street.

The bride was born in Springfield, Mass., and received her education in the school there. Until recently she was employed as a clerk in the office of the Registry of Deeds. Mr. Bristol was born in Northfield and is a graduate of Northfield High School and of Brattleboro Business Institute in Brattleboro, Vt. He is a claim adjuster for the Crane Company.

Guests attended the wedding from Pittsfield, Montclair, N. H., Boston, Northfield and Great Barrington.

"Inside" Information
Outing flannel makes a good drip bag for fruit juice when making jelly. It is preferred by some people to cheesecloth.

Neglecting to boil the glasses may in some cases cause fermentation of the jelly after a few weeks. Scalding the glasses with hot water is not so good a precaution against this undesirable result as boiling them.

Use cheerful, fresh looking curtains in a small breakfast room or alcove. Dotted, checked, or striped gingham is good, or English prints, or cretonne, or muslin banded in color. If the breakfast room is sunny, select colors and fabrics which will not fade or be affected by the strong light.

Whites or yolks of eggs may be used instead of whole eggs in making fancy white or yellow cakes, or as an economy in using up parts of eggs left over. For most purposes 2 whites or 2 yolks may be considered roughly the equivalent of 1 egg. When yolks alone are used a little extra baking powder is sometimes needed.

Profits In Poultry Records

Wide variations in results obtained on poultry farms indicate that larger returns from poultry could be gained by using better business methods in the production and marketing of poultry and eggs, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Farmer's Bulletin 1614-P, "Business Records for Poultry Keepers," gives several kinds of poultry records useful to get the most out of them. The publication may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

MILTON SILLS DIES FROM HEART FAILURE

Another of the brilliant film stars whose vivid portrayal of the "two faced" part in many of the recent productions has thrilled and charmed the audiences is dead. News has come from his home in Los Angeles that death suddenly overtook him after a game of tennis with his wife last Monday. The attack was diagnosed as heart failure. He was 48 years old. The present Mrs. Sills was before her marriage, Doris Kenyon, film actress.

Sills' passing takes from the screen the second of its noted character actors within a month. Lon Chaney, noted for his grotesque character roles, died here in August.

A party of friends gathered at the Sills home last Monday. During the afternoon the actor complained of feeling ill, but said it was nothing serious. At 6:30 p. m., he collapsed and was carried into the house. He was dead when physicians arrived. Mrs. Sills, shocked, was placed under the care of physicians.

He was born in Chicago, January 12, 1882, and attended public schools there. He graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Chicago in 1903, but remained at the university for several years as an instructor of philosophy.

An interest in amateur theatricals took Sills from the scholarly atmosphere of the university and put him behind the footlights.

Success came quickly and after a debut in "Dora Thorne" in 1906 in New Palestine, Ohio, he soon became Broadway's matinee idol.

Among the best of his motion pictures were "The Barker," "Burning Daylight," "The Crash," "The Hawk's Nest," and "The Valley of the Giants." Sills married Gladys Edith Wynne in London, May 26, 1910. To them was born a daughter, Dorothy, who was with her father when he died. The marriage ended in the divorce courts in 1925. Mrs. Sills charging desertion. A year later Sills married Miss Kenyon, and to them was born a son, Kenyon Clarence Sills, now three years old.

The actor is survived by his mother, Mrs. William Sills of Chicago. His father died of a heart attack several years ago. A brother, Clarence Sills, Chicago banker, also survives.

Sills was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, several Southern California clubs, and a director of the motion picture academy of arts and sciences.

State Dept. of Agri. Plans on Label For N. E. Quality Products For Road Stands

Plans are being developed by the State Department of Agriculture for the use of the New England quality products label on roadside stands. A number of the better class of roadside stands which have been inspected and approved by the State Department of Agriculture and are bearing the label on the container in which the produce is sold. Owners of these stands expressed a desire to go farther and have the label displayed in an enlarged form as a sign over the stand.

After careful consideration the Department of Agriculture has offered to these men a set of regulations which if complied with, would enable them to secure such a sign from the State Department of Agriculture. One of the provisions under which the right to display the sign would be allowed is that at least two of the products sold continuously on the stand should be qualified to bear the New England quality products label. Other requirements have to do with the general aspect of the stand such as neatness in appearance, freshness of product and general attractiveness.

The most important provision of the regulations is that the products sold shall be from the farm of the owner of the stand or at least from neighboring farms. No stand which handles products bought in the cities and trucked out to the country can secure such a label, even if it qualified in other ways. The aim of the label is the identification of New England grown produce. It has been used three years now on eggs, turkeys, maple products, potatoes, strawberries, tomatoes, apples and other fruits and vegetables. The plan provides that the State Department of Agriculture shall own these signs and shall lease them to the stand owners at a nominal fee each year. Failure to live up to the regulations will be considered as breaking the terms of the lease and the Department of Agriculture could, in such a case, take away the sign. The signs will bear a large reproduction of the New England quality products label combined with a statement that labelled products sold on the stand have been inspected and approved by the Department. It will be several weeks before the signs are actually delivered but the Department already has about 20 applications for them. One of them is for the roadside market conducted near the Wayside Inn in Sudbury by the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association of which Mrs. Henry Ford is president.

Plowing To Control Borers

Plowing corn fields to control the corn borer is not effective unless the plowman makes a clean job of it. Disking before plowing is sometimes helpful, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. If the soil is dry and cloddy before plowing, disking may help to pulverize it, so that the plow will cover the stalks more completely. Disking will also cut the stalks into short lengths which the cultivator is less likely to drag out. However, if the ground is damp and heavy enough to pack, disking may leave it more difficult to pulverize and thus hinder coverage. Rolling or dragging the stalks so that they lean in the direction of plow travel is helpful, provided the stalks are not broken loose and the soil is not injured by packing. It is always difficult to leave the headlands and backfurrows clean because the ground is almost always packed on headlands and it is impossible to turn the stalks to the proper depth in the furrows. Disking or harrowing is likely to bring stalks to the surface even though the field seems well cleared when plowing is finished. Therefore it is best to rake and burn these strips before plowing. Raking and burning a 25-foot border around the whole field will also dispose of most of the borer stalks which otherwise crawl out of the plowed land to find new shelter in fence rows or other fields.

Cider From Winter Apples

Winter varieties of apples make better cider than do summer varieties, says the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Apples that have been in storage will make good cider, provided they are not overripe. If the apple juice is properly pasteurized and sealed, it is unnecessary to add a preservative, says the bureau, which recently developed a method that saves time and labor in cider making. The juice is pressed, allowed to stand for 12 hours or overnight, decanted from the sediment, and blended if necessary. It is then raised to a temperature of 130 degrees to 140 degrees F. and mixed with diatomaceous earth (also called kieselguhr and diatomite) at the rate of 6 to 8 pounds per hundred gallons, thoroughly stirred, and immediately filtered through a thin layer of the cloth supported by a closely woven cloth. The clear juice is placed in the containers as it comes from the filter, sealed, and pasteurized.

The government of Brazil attempts to protect the coffee growers of that country by safeguarding the price Under the plan in operation in Brazil the Brazilian government controls the coffee. None can be sold except by permission. When there is a large crop the surplus is stored in government warehouses and when the crop is light the surpluses are released. The scheme works fairly well. The plan had some difficulties last year because of the fact that several large crops had been produced in succession. A failure in the coffee crop saved the government from embarrassment and gave an opportunity to reduce the surplus which had reached formidable proportions.

To the Editor of the Tri-State Weekly:
Sept. 10, 1930.

The Animal League of Boston and its Branches receive between three and four hundred dogs a week, chiefly strays. By actual count, not 3 % of these poor creatures bear any mark of identification that would assist us in returning them to their owners.

There are two major causes for this deplorable situation; one, the carelessness of owners, the other an antiquated law which requires that every licensed dog should wear a collar with his owner's name and the license number inscribed thereon. This requirement is well meaning but ridiculous, because the same result can be effected more easily and cheaply if at the time of issuing the license the city or town shall supply also a metal tag which may be immediately attached to the collar by simply bending it.

This system is employed in many other states. The tag carries the license number, the name of the city or town issuing it and the year. The shape of the tag is changed slightly every year, so that a dog officer may tell at a glance whether a dog has been licensed for the current year.

These tags may well be made in our prisons, as are license plates for automobiles. I know no more pathetic sight than in our yards when our ambulances discharge their dozens of stray dogs many of them pets, who look in vain, as each visitor approaches them, for the master whose carelessness is costing their liberty and perhaps their lives. The happiest feature of our work is the restoration of lost dogs to their owners and it would occur oftener under the system we suggest.

The laws governing animals are much in need of general revision. A first step should be toward a more efficient system of protecting licensed dogs.

Nothing in business is sure. The sun may go down on conditions that make any business secure and sound and rise in the morning finding that some thing has happened that completely changes things. The automobile changed the world for harness and carriage manufacturers and the radio changed the world for the talking machine manufacturers. It is entirely within the realm of possibility that motor fuel in the future will be made from vegetation that is now useless, corn stalks, wheat straw and even the weeds along the road may be converted into motor fuel with the means provided for each man to manufacture his own. It doesn't sound reasonable but much stranger things have happened.

A Town Must Make Progress or Become a Deserted Village

The spirit of the age is progress. Wherever one may think of changing conditions makes no difference. Wherever we approve of them or disapprove and progress are here and are likely to remain.

The man who shuts his eyes to the fact and refuses to progress, refuses to change his way of doing things, disturbs no business success but his own. He has the privilege of choosing his own course and permitting the rest of the world to go by.

The same thing is true of a town. The town that refuses to install waterworks and sewer and electric lights and modern conveniences is but exercising its privilege. It can continue to deny its citizens the privileges of these things and imagine that it does not need them to hold its own in the present day world and progressive age. But it does.

The towns these days that are refusing to keep up with the times are dwindling away. The process is slow, but it is sure. When once a town starts down hill, it is difficult to stop it. Its progressive citizens who want modern conveniences slip away one by one and go where they can be had.

A town to hold its place among towns these days must be alive, progressive and aggressive. It is the spirit of the times in which we are living.

Good size and quick growth are the essentials in raising good roasters. Ground grains produce better flesh than whole grains and are more easily mixed and fed with milk. Use about 2 pounds of milk to 1 pound of mash. If dried milk is used, mix 15 pounds in 100 pounds of mash and add water. Corn meal, oatmeal, low-grade flour, middlings, and finely ground oats are good fattening grains. Give water freely at the beginning and end of the fattening period. Feed the birds very lightly twice a day for about the first 2 days; then feed them all they will eat twice a day for the rest of the time, but do not leave feed before them. Cockerels weighing about 4 pounds will gain about 1/4 of a pound in flesh in 10 days feeding.

THE CAPE SCARF

Silk triangles, thrown over the shoulders in casual fashion, are very smart just now. They flaunt their gayety on the tailored frock and sports ensemble. They are a youthful boast on any frock. The brightly spotted scarf on this model slips its ends through the top button-hole of the frock and defies any breeze to dislodge it. The frock has smart vertical seaming, interrupted by diagonal lines, and buttons trim the skirt and blouse. A contrasting binding outlines the seaming. The pattern provides a top cape, which transforms this smart outfit into an outdoor sports ensemble. Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5115. Sizes 14 to 42, 65 cents.

The mode still remains simple for morning. The cloth frock is made of tweed, lightweight wool, or covert; the house frock utilizes linen, gingham, pique, or eponge. In styling, the morning frock is restrained to an even hemline, long or short sleeves, the high waistline, and tailored trim. The first model makes use of clever bandings that terminate in loose ends for trimming. The second model is unusual, consisting of a blouse and a skirt with laced bodice and suspenders. The skirt is circular, featuring the low-placed flare. For the young girl it is particularly charming.

FASHIONS for the SMART WOMAN

FOR SCHOOL-DAYS

When a little girl has a jumper frock for school she's very smart. And when it's cut like the one on the extreme left, she's smarter. If it's plaid, in addition, then she is smartest!

The second double-breasted coat, shown in the center, is the choice of the young-man-about-school. It is mannishly tailored with notched collar, and has those raglan sleeves that boys like.

Not to be outdone, the schoolgirl, too, has taken up the double-breasted mode. A jacket designed just for her is shown on the right, to be worn with frocks or skirts and blouses.

Game Loser Greet Gallant Winner

Among the first to greet Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau (standing left) after his triumphant surprise flight from Germany to New York was Captain Frank Courtney, British Aviator, who attempted the trans-Atlantic flight from England to America in 1928 in the same plane, the Dornier Wal D-1422, but was forced down in mid-ocean. The two are shown chatting while the plane is refueled for a hop from New York to Buffalo enroute to Air Meet at Chicago.

GREENFIELD'S Fall Trade Week BEGINS Monday, Sept. 22

This will be the greatest event of its kind ever conducted in this vicinity. It will give the public its golden opportunity to make the dollar buy more by taking advantage of present day lowest-level prices.

STYLE and LINGERIE SHOWS

The local Publix Theatres—Lawler and Garden—are cooperating whole-heartedly with us to make this event a tremendous success and Manager Lawler has booked the outstanding features of the picture industry for both theaters for the entire week.

In addition to these feature pictures there will be a magnificent style show staged with living models at the two theaters on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and a lingerie-negligee-corset show on living models at the Lawlor on Wednesday afternoon and at the Garden Thursday afternoon. The lobbies, corridors and mezzanines will be overflowing with displays of new Fall merchandise which you may inspect at your leisure.

Visit Greenfield during this great week—inspect Greenfield values—and thus be more convinced than ever that

WHAT WE THINK

By Frank Dixon

"I guess I've lost another pupil said the professor as his glass eye rolled down the kitchen sink.

"When it came to reducing, she was a poor loser.

The appearance and progressiveness of a town does not depend so much on its natural advantages and resources as it does on the spirit and vision of its citizens.

When the traffic reaches a certain volume on gravel roads it costs more to maintain them than is required to build cement roads and pay the interest on the bonds.

It only requires good sense for one to live always within his means, it takes courage sometimes.

A solution to the question of how to improve the vacant lots of the American cities may be solved by the arrival of the Tom Thumb golf courses. These, with the filling stations, should take care of all of the corner lots available in most American towns.

31,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents last year. The death toll in accidents is decreasing in all causes except the automobile.

Ho hum. Well as the spiritualist remarked as she came out of her trance, "It's all in the daze work"

Greenfield District Women's Republican Club To Hold Afternoon Tea Sept. 24

The Greenfield District Women's Republican Club, of which many Northfield women are members, will hold an afternoon tea at the Chateau, Wednesday afternoon, September 24, from 2.30 to 5 o'clock. Among the speakers will be Mr. Amos L. Taylor, chairman Republican State Committee and Mrs. Frank R. Batchelder vice-chairman. Mrs. Arthur D. Potter, of Greenfield, a member of the Committee, will also be present. The three Northfield ladies, who have so long been members of the Town Committee Mrs. N. P. Wood, Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, and Mrs. Leonard Smith, will be guests of honor. Fifteen Northfield ladies will act as hostesses, and there will be music by Mrs. Roy Peterson, violinist, and Miss Mary Louise Troop, pianist.

Several of the candidates for state offices, as well as our local candidates, are expected to give brief addresses. A cordial invitation is extended to every woman in Northfield and neighborhood to be present. The Chateau makes a most delightful setting for such a meeting.

Books are the true levelers. They give to all who faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of our race.—Thoman C. Halliburton.

Farmer Finds New Friend in Radio

RADIO, which to the city dweller is principally a source of entertainment, has taken its place as an important business aid to the farmer.

So diversified are the services which modern broadcasting makes available to even the most isolated farms that the radio receiver has taken its place along with other modern agricultural equipment as an indispensable adjunct to successful farming.

Radio has relegated to the past the days when a farmer depended on his weather eye or aching corns to decide whether rain was in the offing or frost would ruin his crops before morning. Gone also are the days when he shipped his live stock and other commodities without knowing market conditions at the receiving end of the line. A twist of the dial at certain times of day brings him up to the minute information from the Department of Agriculture on weather, prices and the latest scientific farming news. It places him in personal touch with the Secretary of Agriculture, bureau offices, staff scientists and economists who are in a position to take much of the guesswork out of farming.

Although discussions of modern farming methods generally center around labor saving machinery and mechanical equipment, officials of the Department of Agriculture believe the radio deserves an important place among the innovations which are making present day farming less a gamble and more of a profitable business. They at any rate are agreed that the farmer who today has no radio is working at a disadvantage which no amount of modern machinery and equipment can surmount. Especially is this true when recent developments in the radio industry are considered. The perfection of low voltage tubes and batteries, which eliminate the necessity for storage batteries in sets designed for farm use, puts the farmer on a parity with his city neighbors as far as radio reception is concerned.

WOMEN of all ages and types now realize that they must take at least a few minutes daily to care for their skins. The clever young business woman has learned that a good skin is absolutely necessary in an office or a store. . . . The capable home-maker realizes that although she does take care of a big house and several children, the world will not excuse her for lapses in personal beauty care. . . . Even school girls understand that their skins need something more than just an occasional dab of powder now and then. . . . And have you noticed at any large gathering of women, how the representative ones invariably show the happy results of a thorough regimen of skin care?

Fortunately, we have been able to put aside any thought that face creams and lotions are luxuries. Thanks to science and business skill, every woman today can afford to use the finest preparations on her skin without even the tiniest feeling of guilt about the cost. And the trained experience of beauty experts now is available to save purchase of any but the exact preparations required for each particular case.

Every day, I know, this writer answers a great many letters from women who want to know how to treat their skins properly at home; and I am always glad to give my readers, without charge, the full benefit of my many years experience with all sorts of beauty problems.

ClarionPROVES ITSELF*BY EVERY TEST OF TONE and APPEARANCE

Until you hear and see Clarion for yourself, you cannot realize what a sensational new development it is—particularly in clarity and fidelity of tone. That's why we want you to inspect Clarion and submit it to your own tests. We want you to compare it with any other radio made—not merely with any radio in the same price class, but with any other at any price. It will be obvious at once that Clarion is the equal of the most expensive receivers—in tone, in selectivity, in sensitivity, in cabinetwork. It will be just as obvious that Clarion cannot be approached in any of these respects by any radio selling for less than twice its price!

Fruit Soups Are Refreshing

By JOSEPH BOGGIA, Chef
The Plaza Hotel, New York City

IN the eyes of thousands who have been brought up in the sound old traditions of American cooking, a dinner without soup is no dinner at all. Summer and winter, whether the mercury hovers in the eighties or the twenties, they demand their soup and refuse to be satisfied without it. They are rapidly learning to demand a cold soup in summer and a hot soup in winter, but one and all demand their soup.

Jellied bouillon and consommés are, of course, the familiar types of cold soups, but there is no reason why we should be restricted to these. In Norway, Germany and many other countries of Europe, cold fruit soups are widely enjoyed for their delicacy of flavor and refreshing qualities. There seems to be no good reason why we in this country should not seize the opportunity to add variety to this part of our menu.

Iced Fruit Soup—Mix and let stand in the refrigerator overnight one cup orange juice, three-fourths cup grapefruit juice, five cloves and a two-inch strip of cinnamon. Bring to the boiling point one cup of the syrup drained from a can of raspberries. Add a teaspoon of cornstarch mixed with cold water. Cook three minutes and add one-fourth cup sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Add fruit juices, strain and place in refrigerator until very cold. Serve with shaved ice.

Grape Soup—Add one-half cup sugar to a half-pint of water and simmer until clear. Add one pint of juice pressed from ripe grapes, and the juice of one-half lemon. Add a half tablespoon of softened tapioca and again simmer until clear. Keep in refrigerator until very cold and serve with shaved ice.

Raspberry Soup—Let stand for one hour, one quart of mashed raspberries thoroughly mixed with one-half pound of sugar. Press through sieve. Heat slowly, stirring all the time. When boiling point is reached add one tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in cold water. When clear and smooth, add one-fourth cup non-alcoholic sherry. Remove and keep in refrigerator until well chilled. Serve with shaved ice.

I TALKED the other day with a distinguished woman lecturer whose influence has been felt all over this country and abroad. Though nearly fifty years old, she had a complexion that would cause envy among most women only half her age. And when I asked her about her lovely skin, she said:

"Every woman should realize how very worth while it is to care for the skin. Beauty preparations are not just delicately perfumed creams and lotions in pretty jars and bottles, to be smeared on the face occasionally. They are much more. Good beauty preparations not only help a woman to form regular habits of skin care, but they help her to bring out the very best in her appearance."

Since she was a young girl this particular woman has made daily beauty care habitual. And one has only to see and talk with her to realize how great a difference it would make if every woman would do the same.

Too often older women imagine that youth leaves them at a certain age, and that it then is useless to try to have a beautiful skin and a lithe figure. Whether one is twenty, forty, or sixty, however, there is much that can be done to keep a youthful appearance through simple beauty care at home. And if you will write to me about your own particular beauty problems, I shall be only too glad to pass on to you some of the secrets that have helped this well-known woman preserve her youthful appearance.
